It is said that the two Presidential candidates are even on the oil question. Their information and possessions in this line were obtained in 1865, while one was a Major-General, and the other a Congressman. They both undertook the development of oil territory, but both failed to strike oil.

This does not stem a favorable time for wapping horses, or in other words, chang ing political rules. There is no depreion of stagnation in the country for discontent, or upon which to start a hue and ery by the Democracy. Every branch of rade and every department of industry is in a prosperous condition. Labor is in good demand and fairly rewarded. Manufacturies are flourishing. Our commercial and agricultural interests are reaping rewards. The credit of the country never stood so high. The National debt is being rapidly reduced, and disappearing. Our currency ranks throughout the world at par, and our people are prosperous and happy. Where is the provocation for a change of administration? Something mustbe getien up.

The Democrats of the north are again nder the lash of Southern domination, a fact plainly manifest in the south, having dictated the nomination at Cincinnati, of Gen. Hangeck, who had made himself poptlar with the rebel Democracy by issuing orders, when sent to Lousiana by the Govrnment, dictated by rebels. They forced spon the party a candidate whom they hemselves well knew does not rise by vir us of practical experience in the higher ualifications of a statesman to any degree fitness for the Presidency of the United Status;

We gather from the Senituel, that the Democrats of Ashtabula county met in Mass convention at the court house Saturday, July 17, and selected the following delegates to attend the State Democratic Convention which meets at Cleveland, July 22d:-D.
